

BOOK REVIEW

PERSONAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH, by Clair Elsmere Turner, 1930, C. V. Mosby & Co., St. Louis, Mo. $2.75.

This volume deals with the health problems of the individual and with the health of the community. Its chief value is for students and for individuals not particularly trained in modern health knowledge. The hygiene of nutrition, of the mouth, of the central nervous system and reproduction are discussed. There are other chapters on disease prevention, communicable diseases, immunity, food control, water supply, waste disposal, school hygiene, public health administration, industrial hygiene, ventilation, disinfection, etc. The work has been carefully planned and has an easy flowing style and is therefore easily read by those not daily conversant with technical medical terms.

NOTICE

Realizing the importance of parasitology in the Philippines, a group of workers organized in Manila on August 20th 1930, the Philippine Society of Parasitology.

The object of this organization is to encourage interest and research, and to acquaint the members of the Society by means of informal papers and discussions with the activities of local workers in parasitology.

The following persons attended the meeting: Major Joe St. John, member, U. S. Army Tropical Medicine Research Board; Dr. Paul F. Russell, President, Rockefeller Foundation; Dr. Justin Andrews, Dr. Walfrido de Leon and Dr. Lamberto Leiva, University of the Philippines; Dr. Cristobal Manalang Vice President, Philippine Health Service; Dr. Otto Schobl and Dr. Marcos Tubangu, Secretary-Treasurer, Bureau of Science; Mr. Atherton Lee, Philippine Sugar Association; Mr. Gonzalo Merino, Bureau of Plant Industry.